Uniform Division

Major Michael E. Correia

Commanding Officer

Uniform Division

The Uniform Division is the largest and busiest Division within the Providence Police Department. The Officers of the Uniform Division are committed to improving the and quality of life for every person who lives in the City, works in the City, and visits the City; as well as engaging in positive community relations and building trust consistent with its community policing philosophy. The Uniform Division is equally committed to increasing the safety of all who live, visit, and work in the City of Providence by maintaining a sharp focus on reducing crime, directed by data driven analysis.

The Uniform Division is comprised of the following units and bureaus; Patrol Bureau, Traffic Bureau, Mounted Command, Motorcycle Unit, Detail Office, Public Housing Unit, Hit & Run, Parking Enforcement Services, and the Field Training Officer Program. The City of Providence is divided into nine police districts, each commanded by a District Lieutenant. This decentralization strategy allows for officers and community members to build and maintain relationships and trust at the neighborhood level.

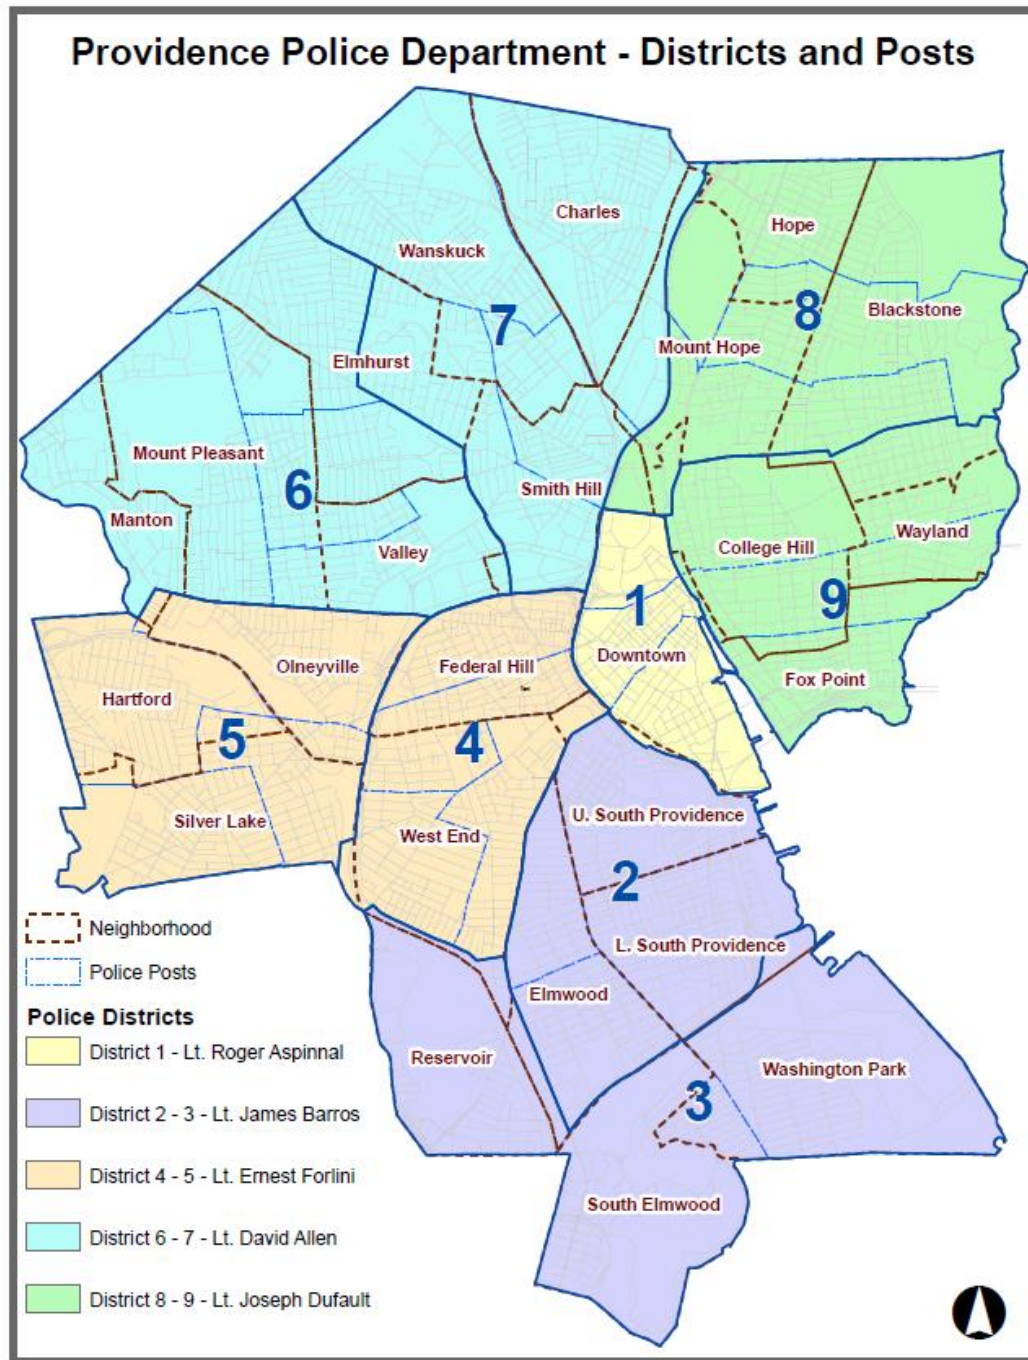

The law enforcement profession is dedicated to addressing the needs of the community and improving their quality of life. The Uniform Division, through community engagement and community partnerships, strives to achieve these goals. On a daily basis, mental health professionals from The Providence Center and victim advocates from Family Services of Rhode Island ride with our Officers. These partnerships deliver much needed services to the most vulnerable members of our community, resulting in less arrests and an improved delivery of much needed professional help.

In 2019 members of the Uniform Division managed several large scale events, to include PVD Fest, Fourth of July Fireworks celebration, Pride Festival / Parade, and numerous other cultural events.

Patrol Districts

The Providence Police Department utilizes a decentralized approach in its policing philosophy. Keeping to this approach, the City has been divided into nine neighborhood-based districts; each with its own substation and under the command of a District Lieutenant. This approach enables police officers to be more accessible and responsible to the citizens in the community in which it serves. In addition, each Lieutenant is responsible for developing a crime-fighting strategy that is specific to the problems that are prevalent in his/her respective District.

Public Housing Unit

Sergeant Raymond Hull
Commanding Officer

The officers assigned to the Providence Police Public Housing Unit produced the following activity for 2019.

- 339 crimes were reported to, or encountered by, the PHU officers (209 PHA properties and 130 Other HUD and Other city locations)
- Of the 339 crimes reported, or encountered, a total of 122 (36%) were cleared by arrest. (67 PHA properties and 55 Other HUD and Other city locations)
- The PHU responded to a total of 2,056 radio calls for service in total
- Issued 105 city and state summons/tags and PHA parking violation stickers
- Effected 31 Dispersals
- Attended 156 meetings

The PHU officers work and coordinate closely with all of the departments of the police department such as patrol, detectives and narcotics to effectively address problems of crime in public housing. The PHU also work and coordinate closely with all outside law enforcement agencies.

For 2019 the PHU officers continued to work closely with the staff and residents of the Providence Housing Authority. The continual informational exchange on suspected criminal activity greatly assists in developing a plan of action to address a developing problem before a minor problem becomes a major problem. Due to a cooperative effort between the PHU officers and PHA staff when a “hotspot” is identified the PHU provides the solution(s) that relates to law enforcement while the PHA staff, such as management, provides an administrative solution(s) such as a non-compliance lease violation infraction or eviction.

In addition, the PHA Security Camera System is used extensively to detect and investigate criminal activity or incidents. Currently there are 266 security cameras located city-wide in all of the PHA family developments and high-rises including 7 city of Providence Parks Department cameras in Merino Park.

Mounted Command

Sergeant Steven Edward Courville

Commanding Officer

The Mounted Command Stables are located within Roger Williams Park and they were constructed in 1993 through an open space grant. The unit, led by Sergeant Steven Courville, is currently comprised of five dedicated police officers. The unit is staffed by a professional civilian workforce of five members, all of whom provide superior care for its police horses.

While this unit and facility is funded through the City's fiscal budget, its horses are acquired through the generous sponsorship of members of the community and the citizens of Rhode Island. During this last year the Providence Police Department conducted a ceremony in which we graciously acknowledged Terry and Paul Moran, president and chairman of the Cranston-based beverage distributor McLaughlin & Moran Inc., for their generous gift of six Clydesdale horses. The Providence Police Department is grateful for their support of our mission readiness.

The Mounted Command serves as part of the Uniform Division, Patrol Bureau, and is under the leadership of Major Michael Correia. The unit proudly serves the City of Providence, performing as the police department's most successful community relations tool. The officers and their equine partners regularly patrol City neighborhoods. Mounted Command provides high visibility over-watch and crowd control for large scale events. The Mounted Command frequently attends community happenings at local schools, elderly centers, parades, and ceremonies where they foster positive relationships with our fine police department.

On October 5, 2019, the Mounted Command hosted its first ever Fall Festival and Open House, successfully drawing over a thousand visitors who were excited to tour our stables and meet our horses as well as our police officers.

Our stables facility remains open to the public and provides for scheduled groups tours.

The Narcotics Bureau targeted both higher level narcotics traffickers as well and street level drug dealers. This two pronged approach is best exemplified by two separate investigations conducted by the NOC Bureau.

The first investigation exemplifying the hard work of this bureau was the investigation of 95 Sisson St. This investigation led to the execution of a search warrant which resulted in the following items:

Narcotics Seized: 2 Kilograms of Fentanyl, 1 Kilogram of Cocaine, 1 Kilogram of Heroin, 2,421 pills of Oxycodone

This investigation resulted in more than 15 charges being brought against the three high level narcotics dealers.

On the opposite end of the spectrum was the investigation dubbed operation “Bussed Out”. This 4 month long investigation resulted in the arrest of twenty three street level drug dealers in the downtown / Kennedy Plaza area of the city.

This versatile unit made some significant seizures of both illegal weapons and narcotics over the last year.

Coordinating with outside resources, the Training Bureau was able to facilitate "Autism Awareness for Law Enforcement" training for close to two dozen sworn members of the Department, with more scheduled for the near future.

Approximately 80 kids ranging from 10-15 years of age attended the 5-day camp which focused not only on the usual skills of shooting, passing, and dribbling, but also on team building and good sportsmanship.
